

Michelle McQuilkin

Michelle McQuilkin is an Arizona native who grew up in Chandler, Arizona. As a first generation college student she attended Arizona State University and obtained a Bachelor of Science in Biochemistry. While working as a medical assistant during college, Michelle found that her passion was in serving others through direct patient care and was accepted to the University of Arizona College of Medicine Phoenix.

While both of Michelle's older brothers served overseas in Iraq, she partnered with the Chandler Service Club to send over 80 Christmas stockings to soldiers who were in the hospital in 2007.

Currently, Michelle is in her fourth year of medical school and is busy planning her wedding for next spring to a local veteran she met in chemistry class during her freshman year at ASU.
